

Spring/Summer 2019 and
Autumn/Winter 2019-2020
Fellowship Program
CAS SEE University of Rijeka

The Fellowship Program CAS SEE Rijeka is an international researcher mobility program that offers up to five months residencies in Rijeka and in the countries of the Balkans region (Bosnia-Herzegovina, Serbia, Montenegro, Macedonia, Kosovo, and Albania). Its intention is to include its organizational scheme and to participate in the network of the 16 other Institutes in Berlin, Bologna, Brussels, Budapest, Cambridge, Delmenhorst, Freiburg, Helsinki, Jerusalem, Lyon, Marseille, Paris, Uppsala, Vienna, Wassenaar, and Zürich. These Institutes for Advanced Study, and among them the Center for Advanced Studies, Southeast Europe in Rijeka, support the focused, self-directed work of outstanding researchers. The fellows benefit from the motivating intellectual and research conditions and from the stimulating environment of a multi-disciplinary and international community of first-rate scholars.

The Fellowships are mainly offered in the fields of the humanities and social sciences but may also be granted to scholars in life and exact sciences, provided that their proposed research project does not require laboratory facilities and that it interfaces with humanities and social sciences.

The Program welcomes applications worldwide from promising young scholars as well as from leading senior researchers whose research is specifically related to the Balkans region. In order to match the Program standards, applicants have to submit a solid and innovative research proposal, to demonstrate the ability to forge beyond disciplinary specialization, to show an international commitment as well as quality publications in high-impact venues.

For the Spring/Summer 2019 and Autumn/Winter 2019-2020 academic semesters, CAS SEE Rijeka offers up to 80 fellowship months.

Applicants are recommended to specify the following in their proposals:

- The relevance and connections of the research to a wider academic context
- The aims and methods of research
- The current state and schedule of their research
- The cooperation partners, including national and international contacts, when applicable
- The interdisciplinary dimension of the research, if relevant
- The importance of trans-national mobility for achieving research objectives
- Their motivation for participating in the program
- Issues concerning research ethics, if relevant

CAS SEE Rijeka Fellows are invited to spend two to five months in Rijeka in accordance with the length and the complexity of their research project.

- Living allowance in the range of € 1,100 per month for a fellow
- Possible support for accommodation expenses
- A research budget in accordance with the research proposal

In compliance with the European Commission's Code of Ethics for Researchers, the fields of research on human embryos and fetuses, on humans, on animals, and human cloning are excluded from the Program. The fellowship program fully complies with the European Commission ethical provisions on privacy, data protection, confidentiality and intellectual property rules. Applicants are requested to indicate possible ethical issues in their proposals. The Program Officer systematically undertakes an ethical eligibility check of applications in collaboration with the Ethical Review Board (with particular attention to privacy and data protection, as most research proposals deal with humanities and social sciences). If needed, the application is transferred to the relevant national ethical committee for assessment. Under the CAS SEE Rijeka Fellowship Program, employment conditions offered to fellows by all participating IAS are in full compliance with the General Principles and Requirements applicable to employers in the European Charter for Researchers and in the Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers. The CAS SEE Rijeka fellowship program follows an equal opportunity policy.
